SUPPLEMENTAL AFFIDAVIT OF FRANK WHEATLEY

Sworn on June 1, 2018

I, Frank Wheatley, a resident of the City of Saskatoon, in the Province of Saskatchewan, SWEAR AND SAY THAT:

1. I am the President of Kamalyte Resources Inc. ("Karnalyte") and, as such, I have personal knowledge of the matters herein deposed to, except where stated to be based on information and belief, in which case I do verily believe the same to be true.

The Stockhouse Forum and Further Defamatory Posts and Improper Proxy Solicitations

2. As previously deposed by me in my Affidavit sworn May 28, 2018, on or about April 12, 2018, I was advised that on April 11, 2018, Jon Phinney, a nephew of Phinney and the lead chemist with Kamalyte, reported to Ron Olchowski, Senior Manager of Engineering for Kamalyte, that a person under the name "mdjbrown" and who is believed to be Brown, was posting on a public online forum known as the "Stockhouse KRN Forum" disparaging, false and defamatory comments about Kamalyte's employees, management, Board of Directors and the success of Kamalyte as a company.

3. As previously deposed by me in my Affidavit sworn May 28, 2018, It appeared to me and I believe that these posts were made primarily for the purpose of redressing Brown's personal grievance against the corporation for terminating negotiations respecting a Brown consulting arrangement, in furtherance of a strategy designed to influence and improperly solicit proxy votes against Kamalyte's incumbent Board of Directors and management at Kamalyte's Annual and Special Meeting on June 7, 2018.
4. I attached as Exhibit 30 to my May 28, 2018 Affidavit copies of the online posts by mdjbrown on the Stockhouse KRN Forum from March 21, 2018 to May 25, 2018.
5. Since May 25, 2018, mdjbrown has made further and additional false and defamatory comments, and other comments which appear to me to have been made primarily for the purpose of continuing to redress Brown's personal grievance and in continued furtherance of a strategy designed to influence and improperly solicit proxy votes.
6. Attached hereto and marked as Exhibit "1" are copies of online posts by mdjbrown on the Stockhouse KRN Forum between May 25, 2018 and May 28, 2018.

Appointee Report

7. Attached hereto and marked as Exhibit "2" is a copy of the Appointee Report prepared for Kamalyte by AST Trust Company (Canada) ("AST"), transfer agent for Kamalyte.
8. Attached hereto and marked as Exhibit "3" is a copy of the Tabulation Report prepared for Kamalyte by AST.

9. Attached hereto and marked as Exhibit "4" is a copy of the Kamalyte Proxy Voting Report prepared for Kamalyte by AST.

What company? and what guys are you refering to? The company was dismantled the day these crooks at GSFC fired Mr. Robin Phiney, thinking that they can do it without him; the actual founder and president of Karnalyte! The company is packed, once again with a bunch of good for nothing, do nothing lame ducks waiting until their next command from GSFC. Who are these guys? How come shareholders allow such incompetent bores and lousy people take over karnalyte? As a loyal shareholder of Karnalyte, I believe Mr Robin Phinney is the only person that has the connections, enthusiasm, and know how to get this baby off the ground.

Sincerely

RE:RE:Locked up share?

q, unfortunately here is the bottom line here.

There are two KRN shareholders that together control enough shares through family, friends, and even acquaintances that will very likely mark a majority WITHHOLD beside every one of these guys names.

Once that happens, they will have a very tough time staying on the corporate payroll for very long.

This is no secret as they were already calculating share support months ago on a NOBO list they ordered, once the new slate of nominees names came in.

Now the only way they obviously think they can win is to start throwing chit against the wall, to see if any sticks.

Problem is, you see this far to often.

If they can sway shareholder support through this trumped up release full of very provable lies, they might hold their seats, but the defamation lawsuits are still there in which they will fight for a while and then settle, as some of these claims today are egregious at best.

Any guesses on who those two guys are?

And guess who pays for that ongoing lawsuit, and the settlement afterwards?-

The shareholders, so it is no skin off these guys backsides personally to start and then fight a defamation suit to confuse the very shareholders that vote for these gems.

Shareholders can finally put an end to these antics by voting WITHHOLD and AGAINST and filling in the proxy designation with your own name.

Now that these guys have brought Mr Phinney into this fight, my proxy will go to him, and I would urge all other shareholders to send a message to the guys that have so little respect for shareholders that they decided to enter into a lawsuit days before the AGM, and shareholders will now have to eat the cost fighting that law suit that will undoubtedly end in a settlement.

Easy to spend shareholders money, instead of their own

Think about that for a minute!

These milestones were completed in 2013, which was a condition that GSFC required to be met before it would invest $43 million in Karnalyte.

GSFC put another condition for its investment - that prior to their investment into Karnalyte my shares in Karnalyte be locked up to support GSFC's position. I agreed to this in the spring of 2013 because I understood GSFC to be a big brother investor that would allow access to large institutional funds.

<http://krnshareholders.com>

Shareholders, in the wink of an eye, Karnalyte coffers will be depleted.

Vote WITHHOLD for all Directors and AGAINST Resolutions.

Put your name at the top for a name as who to cast your vote. NEVER use KRN STAFF

As I mentioned! Definitely worth the price of admission. Have I seen anything like this before with so much dirty laundry being aired on a company's web-site. I can't say I have. On one hand, a little disturbing because the lawyers will be the next at the trough again and the trough is not looking that good anymore. On the other hand, it is sort of refreshing because this kind of stuff is usually pushed under the rug away from shareholders eyes.

Entrenchment against shareholders is all they have left.

You are one of the good guys here that wears his heart on his sleeve, and I can assure you that this is a raunchy smear campaign specifically designed to confuse shareholders.

I will very easily clear my name through emails, documents, amd the proposals presented themselves, but until that time, the election results are is far greater priority.

As you mention, not exactly the finest first message from a president considering KRN hired him almost 4 months ago.

mdjbrown ★★★★★ May 25, 2018 06:39 pm

Q, I can live with that, and once the actual truth comes out, you can decide if you are still dissappointed.

I will go as far as to say that within the first proposal last June that I had worked on for months, our group was to recieve a 1.5% US finders fee for facilitating the massive deal. That entire facilitation fee was then going to be reinvested in KRN shares at I believe $3.00 / share, and the cash from the investment was going to be used to initiate a selective solution mining campaign, while KRN would do a pp to raise the equity required to start construction on the mine.

Essentially huge finders fees were attached to the previous financing, so reinvesting that fee would go to KRN, instead of others pockets.

GSFC was to recieve 75% (initial negotiation starting point) of the Wynyard explored potash at cost, and the magnesium and unexplored lands were going to be split off into several entities, so as to pursue other investors in the mag, selective mining processing, and other carnalitte exploration.etc.. I believe there were 6 separate entities planned in total.

LA Pot Retailer: 12 shops, $1.6bln valuation and, coming soon, Canadian Stock

Executive Interview: Becoming The Largest Technology Company In The Cannabis Industry

KRN would hold 30% royalties in that project.

Lots of positive feedback during the presentation, lots of back and forth negotiating, but it meant GSFC would have to bring immediate cash to the table, so that proposal died on the vine.

That proposal in my opinion might have been the best one presented, as shareholders would have benefitted huge. Problem is, GSFC was responsible for the entire financing.

A second proposal was sent to KRN in November that was as easy as KRN paying $1.5 million to the company doing the mining, and the company would bring in their technology and build the initial cavern and run some tests.

I was told that KRN had no interest in paying any money up front, but if I could come up with a solution that did not require money coming from the treasury, they would revisit it, so back to the drawing board I went.

The third and final proposal included a few more moving parts, as the company bringing in the tech wanted security in the way of shares considering they were bringing in up to $23 million to build the first proof of concept for the tech. The concern was they could build the mine, and then get run off the site. Clearly these guys read the current management far better than I did, as they were not going to come in unless they were protected.

That is where the 7 million shares that I was pocketing comes from lol, but I believe it was beaten down to 3 or 4 million shares by the time it went from GSFC to KRN management.

It could have included god knows what, but I never saw the final draft, so I really can't comment.

Anyway, all of this information will become public through exhibits, as this will more than likely be going to court. The smearing of Mr Phinney, who is now just a shareholder like you and I is uncalled for, and in my opinion slanderous.

Are these guys really that slimey that they have to resort to attacking angry shareholders, in order to keep their seats?

Its called entrenchment 101

Goes to show you what this current group is really capable of, doesn't it?

Who is the next KRN shareholder that is publically attacked?

In the meantime, for now all we can do is vote our proxies, as the Advance Notice Bylaws adopted in 2013 make any floor nominations impossible.

I look forward to completely clearing my name, but right now that is not as important as helping to clean up the boardroom.

Happy voting Q

just my thoughts

You have devalued KRN shareholder's holding by just posting such language and accusations. Save them for court, not a corporate website. It will not stand up in court as this is an open forum and the KRN website is not for the purpose you are using it for. integrity of a shareholder who believes in this company and its mission statement. Robin Phinney started this company from scratch with his ingenious mind and energy, trying to create value out of mud. Why get rid of him? Why did GSFC blackmailed him and lied as they did to other owners of the company. GSFC has held Karnalyte potash project back. So all of the actor are going to cost shareholders money. Q, I can assure you facts are heavily, heavily skewed in this shareholder update, and quite frankly I am astonished they want to go down this road.

Secondly, you post anonymously and I try my best to keep most detailed information to a minimum to protect those involved. No different with the proposal details as I posted months ago. I gave as much info as I could.

If you werent anonymous, I could have been a little more liberal through inbox, but anyone too afraid to reveal their true identities is not going to get that info for obvious reasons.

If you believe in guilty until proven innocent, that is entirely up to you Q. .

Read between the lines for the timing of this mud slinging though, as these guys know for a fact thats all it is.

I have posted for 5 years on this site, I know a lot of the shareholders, and one common goal has always been investors first.

I have no agenda other than to see the shareprice multiples of what it currently is so everyone can benefit. I have spent hundreds of hours trying to make that happen, and this current board is very aware of it, as they established the ground rules.

Ever notice how politics gets really dirty right before elections if fear is in the air?

A little disappointed I had to here what the compensation was for sharing the 'saving technology' from the existing board. I asked you many times Mr Brown. What is your share of the 7 million shares and upwards of $240,000 cash in exchange for the unproven mining concept?

Really not sure who to trust.

curvy, think about it for a minute

If I had anything to hide, why wouldn't I have simply used an alias to hide, when commenting about this group.

I don't believe in it, and furthermore, if you look back at my posts I am very clear not to include info that was not disclosed previously even though I tried my best to get information out to shareholders.

Like I said, there are two sides to every story, and I can assure you that I am not one bit concerned, other than some really good people will be dragged into this, and it will affect them far more than a blog discussion..

And for what, because the current group can not face the fact that this year did not go according to plan, and instead of standing accountable for their part in it, they throw the blame at others for their failures.

Not exactly the type of directors I want watching over my investment, when they can't even admit shortcomings to the owners of the company.

Withhold and Against is all we as shareholders can do to send a message to the corporation that shareholders are not happy.

It is what it is and scare tactics as a last resort on the part of KRN are not going to change that!

.Maybe, just maybe these guys should have respected shareholders starting in May, and we wouldn't be having this conversation. Again Accountability curvy, I can assure you there are always two sides to every story, and as I do not post under an alias, there is absolutely no hiding.

That's the way I prefer it, and as I have said many times, it forces me to stand behind my comments without the comfort of hiding like a coward behind a computer screen.

I have no issue standing for what I believe in, and that is not about to change.

To claim enrichment against me is almost comical, when these these guys immediately doubled their directors fees the first day they were elected.

It is almost laughable, if it wasn't true

Lets see if those at KRN are as comfortable with me publically sharing my side of the story, as these guys must have very short memories.....

The unenviable part of course, is I still really like a couple of the guys on the board even though they are involved in a really tough situation, so it is going to be very difficult to expose facts, and not just idle conjecture as was presented this morning.

Integrity of several directors will be tested, as they will either lie, or tell the truth.

I have nothing to hide, and as a result I am not one bit concerned about this futile attempt at whatever it is they are trying to accomplish.

First a slew of a couple day old aliases threatening me constantly by inbox, and then this fictional story appears.....no connection there....lol

Announcing this rhetoric so close to proxies arriving, I guess they feel threatened

Too bad

Maybe they should have taken heed to my countless emails, and calls regarding shareholders concerns, and getting information out to those shareholders in a timely manor.

Take a look in the mirror boys.....

lol, quite the piece of fictional writing, 2Tru aka peter the great....lol. My 15 minutes of fame, I guess?

Are you getting worried shareholders are smarter than what you give them credit for, and see right through this nitrogen charade?

Funny how a multimillion dollar corporation goes to such lengths to discredit a shareholder they percieve as standing in the way of their re-election.... First anonomous posters come out of the woodwork, and when that didnt work, the big guns come out right before proxies do..... What timing gentlemen....lol

Problem is, as these guys know, I keep very careful notes and even taped phone conversations, and if this is the direction they want to take instead of focusing on the creation of shareholder value, all I can say is bring it on where I am concerned.

Mark, Peter, Greg, and Todd, if you want to start throwing chit out there, lets get at er.

Todd, I recieved some interesting info from you about Su Ma that you wanted me to look into.

Peter, were you supposed to provide me the names of all the candidates that ran for the CEO position so that I could research them for you? I can certainly provide names for the blog board. if you would like.

Peter, you mentioned Todd was not concerned with the nominees being submitted months ago. Why was that? If I recall, something about us vs them.....

Greg and Mark, I really hope you have nothing to do with this witch hunt, as you guys have the most to lose professionally by being drug down this very public rabbit hole.....

The list is long gentlemen, so lets open our notes shall we? or

If this sensational piece of work is retracted by Monday, I will consider it an oversight in judgement on your part, and it will be water under the bridge.

If not the gloves are off, and the singing begins Tuesday..

Que the music, mystro as if you think a public statement with very few facts is going to scare me off, you dont know me very well.

Personal enrichment is an interesting claim against me considering over the past several years a consulting position with the corporation to carry out research, and shareholder liason work was discussed, and in fact according to two directors, it was approved by the board.

Because of my relationship with many shareholders I believe you referred to me as an asset in corporate shareholder communication

All documented, and even more humorous is KRN used some of my work, so go figure.

I have put in many, many hours of work for my quote enrichment as they call it.

$5000 / month and was to be paid for 2017 and 2018, but I guess that cheque is still in the mail. Options were also mentioned, but I refused

As for the direct attack on Mr Phinney,, I hope a public press release comes out in his defense, as he from my understanding does not post on this board.

The balls in your court KRN, so lets make a beautiful song together, shall we.

Mr Phinney, if you read this blog board, I believe it might be time we compare notes for a response to this recent publically released piece of work. Give me a call if you want a good laugh.

Normal course of action would be a letter to cease and desist any comments ,and I know they have my number, so I guess we are getting to close to proxys arriving in the mail for that....lol

This personal attack just intensifies my resolve that these guys need to be shown the door

Really, a public personal attack on a little ole shareholder that is tired of corporations thinking it is alright to pick pocket regular shareholders?

Let your performance the last 12 months be your judge and jury, dont try to pass accountability on to others for your failures.

WITHHOLD and AGAINST all day long!

q, with all due respect, you need to read a little more..

The sylvite seams being targeted on KRN's lease are not thick enough to use the current conventional solution mining technique (Belle Plaine method), but are perfect for new horizontal selective mining tech.

Everything is there ready to go with the exception of cash, and those who know how to extract the potash through this patented process

The caveat of course with trying something new is there are no guarantees that the process will hit a homerun on the first swing, but those who were going to come in were very confident.

They were bringing the cash to fund it, so clearly they had high expectations.

Just sayin!

Please stop selling your 'new technology' for the KRN project. The lease was selected for the high carnallite content. By your own admission, this is not the resource for your 'solution mining solution'. The lease was available but ignored by potash miners because of the high magnesium content.

mdjbrown ★★★★★ May 26, 2018 04:04 pm

S3, I agree with you 100%. The truth regarding the last 5 years to be told.

I have no doubt you find the proposals confusing, they are

You are talking millions upon millions of dollars to make it happen, and a potential technology that could change the potash mining in Saskatchewan is carried out.

By its very nature, it is going to be confusing, but we tried our best to dummy it down over 3 kicks at the can to the point of KRN has the sylvite, and Potco will bring in the entire cost of building phase, the patented technology, and expertise to extract that sylvite economically.

For that dual company making monster deal, I was going to get lots of money and lots of shares according to Wheatley, and the company doing the actual work and bringing in $23 million, was going to do it as a favor to me I guess....lol

Nice fairy tale for me, if it was actually true...

btw, you forgot option

4) maybe, just maybe I am not one bit concerned about the false allegations, large in part due to the fact that I have several emails that confirm not only were directors giving advice on the drafting of the proposals, but they were along for the ride.

Mr Wheatley should have asked his directors first if they had any involvement, before slinging chit, dont you think

If these guys want to push, let them, but you can guarantee my emails will make their way to Mr. Phinney so he can prove in a court of law with out question this group is using these personal attacks for something other than a truth mission 2 weeks before the AGM.

BECAUSE THE FAIRY TALE IS RIDDLED WITH BS.

This is not a he said./ she said as third parties were also involved, and know exactly what the truth is.

Do you really think I just waltzed into Torys and asked the receptionist if I could present a proposal to the lawyer that works with GSFC?

Do you think I just invited myself to the Board of Directors meeting in Saskatoon after GSFC reviewed the proposal? KRN reimbursed me for my flight!

That was in June, and now that proposal is all of a sudden an issue?

What about the 2nd proposal? No mention of that one in the fairy tale, because the only cost was KRN bringing in a couple million and let the drilling begin.

But there are emails from directors excited about the possibilities of moving forward.

Then I was told, if I could find a way to bring a proposal back to the table without KRN having to tap into the treasury, that could be an option

So I went back to the drawing board, and together with the mining company, we arranged the best deal we could to bring back to the table.

I can assure you it is all documented through a paper trail.

The company building the mine required share equity in order to proceed. No cash, just shares to protect themselves. Standard business practice, and imagine that, it was fast tracked from GSFC to KRN and stopped dead in its tracks apparently with management..

That was in February, but I guess 4 months later right before the AGM is a good time to call me out.....lol.

You do not have to be a Ivy league scholar to see the progression in the proposals.S3, and the last proposal would have seen creation of shareholder value, just by announcing the experts behind the proposal. Theres those 3rd party guys again, not mentioned in the fairy tale...doh!

As for aligning myself with Mr Phinney, Wheatleys agenda filled fairy tale will 100% ensure Mr Phinney and I discuss the options , however the first thing is getting through this AGM.

Robin and I disagree on things, but picking fights with the corporations owners is not one of them, and as a result I will do what ever I can to ensure this bull chit does not happen to any other KRN shareholder ever.

I am an easy target as I do not believe in posting anonymously, so there is no secret who I am.

Mr Phinney is an easy target as he is backed by the largest block of shares inthe corporation.

KRN is and will always be a shareholder driven company, where shareholders are in managements face often to ensure our best interests are being protected.

Mr Phinney was no exception, but the difference between then and now is he didnt hide.

Kind of like the neighbor who moves in 4 months ago, and is not interested enough to even say hi.

This isnt Yellow Head Mining where 3 years of care and maintenance, share consolidation, and demotion to the venture exchange while the CEO pulls in 6 figures to office sit, is going to fly.

The days of corporations using sharehoilders money to fight frivolous lawsuits, and using the treasuries as their personal ATMs has got to stop.....If you are a shareholder, there is no way you can disagree

Anyway, I have taken enough of your time.

Happy voting, and lets see where this journey leads us

Brown

I am a simple man from a simple place, I find your proposal confusing. Three things always come out in my world – the sun, the moon and the truth.

You are the only one this board that knows the truth surrounding your dealings, and you know whether the accusation are unfounded or not, you know how strong or weak your own case is.

What you don't know is whether the accusation against the founder of this company are true or false. I find it very foolish on your part to align yourself with the unknown fate of the a twice fired founder and take up his cause, with out first doing your due diligence. The notice to shareholders says the door is open, go find out the truth before you pledge your allegiances. Go find out the truth on the matter and inform all share holders.

From my perspective you are either

- 1) Too emotional and not thinking straight, maybe need legal advice
- 2) You are not that smart and too cheap to get advice
- 3) Or you are in thick as thieves

What ever the truth is, shareholders deserve to know.

jawadyar ★★★★★ May 26, 2018 02:03 pm

Robin Phinney's Letter to Shareholders

My name is Robin Phinney, the founder and a minority shareholder of Karnalyte Resources Inc. ("Karnalyte"). Gujarat State Fertilizers & Chemicals Ltd. ("GSFC") and myself are the two largest minority shareholders. I presently hold 1,528,577 common voting shares.

I started Karnalyte with a mission to build shareholder value by developing a world class potash and magnesium asset. The asset which will economically produce high quality agricultural and industrial grade potash products and industrial grade magnesium products.

All of the technological development milestones were met in a timely manner over the years and within the budgetary restraints.

I privately raised the first $5 million in 2008, and then $15 million the following year to do the preliminary engineering, resource definition and an Environmental Impact Study ("EIS").

These milestones were successfully completed and led to Karnalyte's IPO in December 2010 that raised an additional $64 million. With the additional funds, the initial detailed engineering and critical EIS documents were completed. These milestones were completed in 2013, which was a condition that GSFC required to be met before it would invest $43 million in Karnalyte.

GSFC put another condition for its investment - that prior to their investment into Karnalyte my shares in Karnalyte be locked up to support GSFC's position. I agreed to this in the spring of 2013 because I understood GSFC to be a big brother investor that would allow access to large institutional funds.

Following GSFC becoming a shareholder, several proposals to raise money from very reputable firms and tier one banks were presented to Karnalyte's Board of Directors (the "Board"), but none of them were accepted. I believe that all of these proposals were not accepted by the Board because the Board believed that a better deal would surface. This put me at odds with the Board, as Karnalyte's business goals were to raise money for the project which needed $600 million. GSFC was aware of the capital requirements for this project at the time it invested in Karnalyte and GSFC was on board with it at that time.

It is also of grave concern to me that at the May 2014 annual general meeting ("AGM"), I was re-elected as President and CEO, but one day after the AGM, the Board relieved me of my duties. GSFC supported the Board's decision without consulting me.

Over the course of 2014 and 2015, three CEO's came and went, and no business or technical development occurred. Moreover, the Board and GSFC agreed to an Asset Write Down in the spring of 2015.

This action by the Board prompted a group of concerned shareholders to act as dissident shareholders against the Board. GSFC joined the concerned shareholder group asking for some special privileges which were agreed to. The group of concerned shareholders then regained control of Karnalyte in May 2015.

It is now my intention to obtain an exemption from the Alberta Securities Commission to broadcast further information pertaining to the Management Proxy & Information Circular, dated May 14th, 2018, regarding the Annual and Special Meetings of shareholders to be held on June 7th, 2018 in Saskatoon, Sask.

PLEASE BE INFORMED FULLY BEFORE YOU SEND YOUR PROXY OR VOTE. YOU HAVE UNTIL 48 HOURS BEFORE THE MEETING TO SUBMIT. DO NOT MAIL YOUR PROXY AS IT MAY NOT GET THERE IN TIME. SUBMIT BY TELEPHONE OR FAX AND KEEP A RECORD OF TIME AND DATE. I HOPE TO HAVE MY BROADCAST WITH FURTHER INFORMATION BY THE MIDDLE OF NEXT WEEK.

If you have not received your proxy by mail, please contact your investment broker or phone Kirstin Dillon at AST(403 776 3900) or by email at: inquiries@astfinancial.com

I AM VOTING WITHOLD on the resolutions related to election of the Board and audit committee proposed by the management and AGAINST on the resolution proposing Karnalyte's name change. Once you have read all of the information, please vote your own shares.

Please note that the current Board requires a minimum of 2/3 majority vote in order to proceed with the name change and other developments, including the nitrogen project which, I believe, have very little merit and are not in the best interests of Karnalyte and its shareholders.

MORE INFORMATION WILL BE PROVIDED BY ME ONCE THE ASC ORDER IS OBTAINED. AT THAT TIME YOU CAN REACH OUT TO ME IF YOU HAVE QUESTIONS OR CONCERNS AS WELL.

you are exactly right P.M.

In fact, I had to almost beg Mr Phinney to put you on the list of nominees last year, due to your lack of corporate experience. it was either you or me, remember...

Do you remember Mr Phinney telling you that he would rather appoint you after the election, instead of putting you on the slate? I bet he remembers like it was yesterday!

Funny how things go, isnt it?

Last year you guys needed my perceived influence with Mr Phinney and the shareholders to make sure you were elected.

This year that influence is now a threat, and as a result you are relying on every dirty trick in the book to discredit the very same shareholders that put you in those seats last year..

What ever happened to the ole "Todd thinks we are in good shape in the election"

how are the daily voting updates going? lol

Face it boys, you failed to deliver this past year, and now its time to answer for it.

No amount of whining, or throwing a tantrum can change the fact of your inability to succeed last year. You tried, You failed. and now its time to flock off with the rest of the seagulls.

And you are 100% right about fool me once,shame on you, as I completely trusted the promises of better communication, transparency and creating shareholder value..

Didnt one of the KRN directors even come onto Stockhouse last year, and make those same promises to all that read this blog?

You wont be fooling me a second time P.M., that I can guarantee!

Keep on pumping each others tires in that board room though, as you are about to hit an unavoidable spike belt on the morning of June 7th,

Harp, Wheatley has a legal background, but would also know that any legal costs to litigate the companies recent statements will come out of the treasury, not his own pocket.

Shareholders Unite as this new direction being taken may have disaster written all over it if ongoing weakness in potash markets continue, and very specialized expertise is utilized.

Thank you Harp so much. I think most shareholders can see right through this charade, and in fact see this as a petty attempt to discredit the founder of this company at shareholders expense. Would these false accusations been thrown ouy so carelessly if it was Rowan and Wheatley paying for the legal defense of the allegations?

Of course not, we the shareholders are paying for it.

Shareholders need to question the timing of these accusations and understand that Mr Phinney and I can not even clear our names before the AGM, so this public ploy is meant to do nothing more than sway, confuse, and distract shareholders.

Mr Phinney has been out of the game for a year, so what good is dragging his name through the mud 2 weeks before the election?

These are tactics generally only seen in Proxy Contests to discredit one group of nominees or the other. The unusual fact here is Mr Phinney, myself, or anybody else for that matter are not on the ballot for shareholders to choose from.

KRN made sure of that, as not one of the 6 nominees submitted to the company were added to to ballot. Instead all 6 were rejected. Not 1 of the six names were qualified to be added to the ballot when compared to those currently holding board seats? I highly doubt that!

As a shareholder tired of these continued censorship attempts, all I can hope is that shareholders see through this smoke screen and vote based on undeniable facts. It hasnt changed my opinion, and I am sure Mr Phinney would say his vote has not changed.

If this group has somehow impressed you this past year? vote for

If you are part of an increasing number of shareholders that are basing your vote on the very poor performance by this group the past year, highlited by our decimated shareprice, the unexplainable hiring of a guy who babysat a company in Care and Maintenance the past 3 years., and in that tenure carried out a 12:1 consolidation of shares, and had the company demoted to the venture exchange as the person to lead our company, and just yesterday had his first interaction with shareholders after being hired 4 months ago, and if you are deeply concerned with the lack of any substantial details disclosed regarding the entirely new direction this company is taking in pursuing urea, vote WITHHOLD and AGAINST.

Of several past elections, this is by far the easiest one to vote on

You are either happy with the direction this company is taking, or you are not!

No lawyer in his right mind would approve such a public statement aimed at two significant shareholders on a corporate website. Maybe in India, but this is Canada. We have laws and proper enforcement of the law. Otherwise, good luck to GSFC for their approval as we know they control KRN. It only makes the case for shareholder's IRON CLAD. Start shredding documents GFSC.

S3, at least three proposals have been submitted to KRN in the past year all introducing selective solution mining technology.

The first in June, second in November and the last in February. They may I have been more, but I was not a part of them.

Two of them included top end solution mining industry leaders who were very involved with the proposals submitted..

The final proposal I am aware of included a requirement of KRN shares for security purposes. The company was to receive those shares in exchange for bringing in up to $23 million dollars, and the technology to build a proof of concept well on the KRN property.

They were willing to start asap, and in my opinion, and that of several industry gurus, it was a very good offer for everyone involved including shareholders, but unfortunately shareholders were never made privy to that offer, likely because it interfered with the nitrogen idiocy that had also been going on for months, that shareholders were also not made aware of.

I am very confident that if given the choice between the selective mine proposal and the nitrogen idea that is being forced down shareholders throats, shareholders would have voted for the selective mining .

The premise behind the final offer was that KRN could be generating revenue fairly quickly through the sales of potash from the selective technology. This would in turn enable other mines to be built once the process was field tested. The process was to target KRN's sylvinitic seams specifically, and would not disturb either the carnalite or the magnesium deposits.

As Karnalyte is currently the furthest along with all of the required solution mining infrastructure, it would have been a perfect fit.

Obviously the company bringing in the technology was going to receive the negotiated amount of shares, as I do not have $23 million and I don't have the expertise to build a solution mine.

This is just a very brief snippet of the details left out of the targeted witch hunt today, but very easily verified by the third parties when the time comes for that disclosure.

All those details will all be made public once legal proceedings start.

just my thoughts

I guess after watching you guys fail all year, another failure should be expected.

Tell me about the front runner for the CEO position, What happened there? Why did you have to settle for someone else not nearly as qualified?

Funny you would ask me to review each candidate prior to your interviews with them, and then the best one says thanks, but no thanks.

Up until today I was fine with discussing solely your performance in creating shareholder value.

That alone was an epic failure as evidenced by the historic low share price.

But now that you publically accuse me of things you know are 100% lies, and tie Mr Phinney into it as well, game on sunshine.....

Bare down boys, because I will gladly take this as deep as you want to go with it!

I am sure Mr Phinney will do the same.

Shareholders have a right to know all the details, now that you opened that can of worms.

In fact, lets let the actual owners of the company decide who was working harder this year to create shareholder value, shall we? The 3 proposals I worked on this year with several very high ranking potash industry professionals involved, or the nitrogen pipe dream

Couldnt agree more curvy

Break this can wide open including GSFCs and KPMGs role in all of this as well.

Lets hear all the details right down to the employees roles in the bungled Optimization Program.

As for these guys going after me, oh well. the truth shall set me free or at least the truth in the documents I have will.

But bringing Mr. Phinney back into the spotlight after he has been gone for a year is absolute nonsense. Heck call out Goodman and the gang as well. What about Mr. Ma.

Looks like Rowan and the Gang want to one up Goodman and the gang....lol

My first guess would be that Mr Phinney never authorised the board to double their directors fees on the first day.

I am very certain he did not authorise the options these guys awarded themselves.

And I am 100% sure he would have told every one of these guys they were crazy for chasing a nitrogen fairy tale.

So how do any of these things relate to the upcoming election?

These guys are solely responsible for this years lack of the creation of shareholder value, no one else.

The timing of all of these false accusations are equally as disturbing, as the last proposal was given to these guys in February.

Now all of a sudden a few days before the election its a public issue, as is Mr Phinneys role a year ago.?

Nothing suspicious there.....lol

Curvy, why not instead tell all the shareholders how this nitrogen unicorn is going to be economically viable and how shareholder value will be created through completely revamping the company., as that is what is currently on the table.

You are excellent with NPV, CAPEX and OPEX figures when trying to knock something down.

Here is a grand opportunity to use those talents to support this nitrogen idea.

I say there is no way it will create any shareholder value for at least 3 years., if at all!

Thank you very much Der. Your kind words are very important in a time when things are a bit haywire. Be careful though as the H8ters will likely wage a personal attack on you as well for even mentioning my name...lol.

As you correctly point out, the new technology hype alone would trigger global interest in this company, and along with it the possibilities of even green tech government grants, etc.

The nitrogen idea announced recently did not have the desired hype affect, because as you say they timeframes do not allow for any hype generation. The market literally snubbed its nose at the idea.

KRN is perfectly set up for the new tech attempt, so I fail to see the reluctance.

This is exactly why I have spent the past year and a half of my life trying to get this on the table, as every shareholder would benefit.

The possibilities are endless, and if in the event the guys were in fact able to prove it as an economically viable solution, everyone wins beyond your widest dreams, as we would be the first..

It would be front page industry news.

Both Gensource and Westerns management are obviously forward thinking teams that embrace the idea. Next step for them is how to get there, and thats what they are looking at doing.

KRN is years ahead with the infrastructure, approvals, etc, and would be the first to attempt the tech in this modern era, so again, I dont understand the reluctance.

The guys on the new tech team are some of the biggest potash industry names in the business, and if they see even a remote chance that this tech could work and become viable, why would anyone argue.

Unfortunately this has become much more about the personalities involved, than the actual creation of shareholder value, and now all shareholders are paying the price.

Somehow we need to press the reset button, and the only way I see that happening is a complete change in company culture.

That begins with each and every shareholder voting on June 7th.

Thanks again der. it is really nice to know there are others that support the new tech option.

I don't know where to start with this unbelievable turn of event ... Well I use to be a shareholder here a bit more then a year ago until it was made clear care and maintenance was next .. I quite happy I left back then . It's quite easy to understand that in order to have an increase in shareprice you need something to speculate on ... So let's speculate ! I fail to see how a nitrogen plant wich is not even located and wich studies would drain totality of the treasury plus dilution and only bring profit in 5 + year minimum is something that new investor can speculate on ... I truly believe this would massacre the shareprice ! So slective solution mining is the other option ... well if in fact if this is a go I'm buying back and I won't be the only one trust me ! Why? Because that brings a huge risk reward opportunity in a short time frame (1 year) where krn could profit from it .. Sure would bring a whole lot more speculation around this company then a nitrogen plan wich would take many many years before it even as everything in place to be build ... What this management just did as far as pointing fingers and playing the old blame game speaks for itself so im not going to comment on it .. I am part of investor/traders group and will bring this story in front of 5000+ of them so they can see how corporate games are being played here .. The letter to shareholder says Dan Brown was going to get 7m shares for putting this together but doesn't state what the other party gets? One would think Dan Brown was going to pay the other party with those share otherwise why not mention what's in there for the other party? And what happens to the subscription agreement where it state that its potash first and then mag ornitrogen ??? On a more personal note I have known Dan Brown for years and i truly believe he is a dedicated shareholder to this company and very generous human being ... These personal attack goes to show management lost their cool and are now going berserk ... Not a very « Jedi » move if you ask me ! They should retract ! Good luck guys ... I'll be on the sideline watching and might come back in if common sens prevail !

Curvy, one could say the exact same for a urea / ammonia plant. idea

By KRN's own admission no one has built a new urea facility in Saskatchewan in 26 years, and I have yet to hear one positive argument for the corporation's new direction.

It will take years to get anywhere close to building a facility, and the same economics apply, and KRN does not have years left based on what will be a very quickly evaporating treasury.

Feasibility Studies, Environmental Assessments take years and cost millions of dollars in which it appears KRN has stated they are paying for.

What contributions are GSFC putting into this?

Now that all the fun and games was had the past couple days with the personal attacks, lets get back to the actual facts.

KRN has provided no details on how this urea facility is or will be economically viable, how they plan to pay for it other than using the treasury for phase 1, whatever that entails, and they want shareholders to embrace it.

Are you kidding me? The good ole trust me, we know what we are doing wont fly based on nothing more than the boards history over the past year.

A decimated share price, a new CEO that cant be bothered to introduce himself to the owners of the company, very little transparency, very little actual communication other than mandatory financials, and a couple weeks before the AGM, a fluffy news release about the company completely changing direction is released containing very little if any info to support it.

Those are hard, real facts they can not change.

Months ago I posted that if these guys think shareholders are naive enough to be kept in silence, and a hail Mary solution is presented late in their term, they will get punished severely.

Well here we are.

At the end of the day, all these guys can do is campaign on what they have done this year to create shareholder value. That's all shareholders including myself are concerned with, and as a result of that failure I will vote Withhold and Against.

It's really not that hard to comprehend.

All the extra antics aside, no very late, very vague forward looking promise of urea is going to change that. The market obviously does not like the idea, and neither do a lot of shareholders.

My vote is based on nothing more than what has this board done for shareholders in the last 12 months - not very much, and my vote will reflect that! Simple

So all the back room stuff is out in the open but something I still do not get! What is this wondrous new technology? 1. Solution mining has been around forever. 2. As too has horizontal drilling. The reason why horizontal drilling works is because all the cheap easy to get at oil is for the most part gone in the US & to some extent Canada. Needless to say there is no real economic benefit in the Potash industry. One could argue but you can get at the thin layers true enough but there is so much cheap thick layers which is why to this point those going the solution route generally choose directional drilling though leave open the possibility for horizontal. While horizontal drill prices have come way down they still are more expensive and riskier than directional drilling. So if there were a shortage or peak Potash theory happening in Sask. it would make sense but that is not the case. So just not sure why anyone would choose horizontal drilling when the supply is abundant and cheap????? Hey I am no technical guru when it comes to Potash so would love for someone to explain this wondrous new technology and why anyone would do it in a time of cheap abundant supply. Please do not repeat all the benefits of solution mining we know them just the benefits of this technology??? So far I have heard nothing from Mr Brown except for repeating the benefits of Solution mining and horizontal drilling!

Mr. Brown I heard that hole story but the way I heard it was a little different. It was about lawyers and management in general. It went like this. If the office wall collapsed and all the lawyers (managers) were buried in a hole up to their neck in rubble what should you do? Add more rubble!

That would be awesome :D ! Doubt he will though ... I believe he worked on that proposal so is own team could profit from it now mine LOL ! Heard he worked hard on it and even for free ! Not quite sure what management was working on though for their salaries ?? Shareholder sure did not have a good pay day this year hey ?

Well the Beethy process may be a game changer for EPO. Now that the 1 for 10 consolidation is done maybe the team there can find the money to pay Mjdbrown's finders fee and consulting contract.

How can this board even snub this proposal when it's the only path they can take to create shareholder value ? It's game over for karnalyte otherwise simple as that .. How can shareholder even speculate on that nitrogen project when there is nothing at all to speculate on that subject ? Next stop is .20 if krn starts liquidating their treasury for that unclear nitrogen plan as market cap will reflect that falling treasury .. The beechy proposal might not be a sure thing but at least it would bring a whole new gang of speculator wich would certainly help the situation here on the upside .. easy choice imo .. looking forward to see krn try it out as I would myself and many other be on the bid !

oh, oh me thinks insiders are posting again...lol .

NO WHERE in the desperate fairy tale written by Wheatley does it mention Beechy.

and you are right p.m., desperate men do desperate things as clearly evidenced this past week

I have nothing to lose except the continuation of share decimation.

But those in the boardroom have everything to lose, and as a result KRN has resorted to entrenchment tactics.

Funny thing though.

A well known shareholder, Peter Matson once told me a very interesting story, that applies here and the morale was -

If you are in a hole, stop digging as you will only get deeper.

That is really good advice, dont you think 2Tru.

Smart guy, that Mr Matson.

The mdjbrown Proposal

2trumule ★★★★★ May 27, 2018 10:06 am

This is from KRN letter to Shareholders-to Dan Brown 250,000 finders fee to Dan Brown 60,000 consulting contract to Dan Brown and friends 7million KRN shares--25 percent of company to KRN and shareholders

a black box non tested theory from a person in Beechy.

This does not even take into account all the infrastructure and information that cost KRN lots of money to aquire being at the dispaal of Dan Brown and friends.

What does KRN get out of this? NOTHING.

As a shareholder I would not be happy if the management decided to go down this path of personal enrichment for Mjibrown.

MDJ can spin all the webs he wants but the fact is this process aint worth the paper its written on and shame on him for using his position of trust with many shareholders to enrich himself at their expence.

Desperate men do desperate things.

Mr Brown

You ask why I have nothing to say at this point. I am confused as to what I should do. I have asked you a number of times about details of the new tech, thinking you were concerned about shareholder's value.

We are all finding out now that you were using us through this forum to support a concept that will pay you a significant fee.

I have very little faith in your comments now.

If you havent noticed Einstien, your threats or the companys recent threats will not change my tune.

In fact, as I put together my files for a visit this morning with my lawyer, all the past emails and audio files I have saved bring back such vivid memories.

Us old guys often have to record conversations, so we do not get them mixed up.

So heres one for the ages.

Last Friday I am falsely accused of taking 7 million KRN shares for my own enrichment, with no regard to my fellow shareholders.

Right off the bat I knew that was not accurate, or even negotiated as the ASC would not approve that number of shares due to it being over 20%. GSFCs lawyer confirmed that with me on the morning of February 22, and even 20% was going to be a stretch for an equity swap..

So strike 1,

but I also wanted to make sure I had documentation proving that those shares were going to the company bringing in the funding for the project and not me. The proposal itself clearly identifies PotCo as the recipient of those shares, not me persnally

So strike 2

But here is the most interesting part of the accusations against me.

What if an 11 minute audio file dated February 25, 2018 at 21:04 and attached notes happened to make its way to oh, I dont know, Mr Phinney that records a conversation between myself and a director of KRN, discussing those very same shares, and that the director tells me the best that the parties can agree to after discussing it with the other parties lawyer was 3 million shares, because the other party wants the other 3 million shares.

A comment about a consulting agreement, and how the proposal could transform the company immediately creating value for shareholders, if the rest of the board agreed.

Rivetting stuff!

Of course in order to make sure I had the details correct, I played the file for a third party the next morning so as to carry on discussions about whether or not the terms were acceptable

So just curious, as I am not a lawyer but since I was personally involved in the conversation, as was a clearly identifiable KRN director, a third party heard it, and Mr Phinney will soon hear it, would be grounds for reasonable doubt that KRN is telling the truth, and that maybe there are ulterior motives for last Fridays smear campaign directed at both myself and Mr Phinney??

If I am being accused of enrichment, what exactly would that be considered if one of the very corporations that is accusing me, is actually dipping their hands into that cookie jar, and as a result know that what they are accusing me of is not true.

Could that Constitute - Strike 3 - YOUR OUT!

I guess we are going to find out real soon, as I am sure Mr Phinney will wear the rubber off his tires getting this very detailed support package to his legal representatives, lol

Now that would make for an interesting discussion if the file was played at the AGM for KRN and GSFC.....

WHOOOO DOGGY, Now that will give a new meaning to new business from the floor, wont it?

Maybe even on the spot resignation, worthy?

I hope arrangements have been made to pod cast the AGM, as it should be one heck a hummmm dinger!

gig is up alright, and KRN made a big mistake attacking shareholders with accusations that can easily be proven false with one click of a

stay tuned as the suspense thickens!

Robin, I am not even sure if you read these boards, but I am sure someone you know does, so expect a care package to show up on your doorstep within a couple days, compliments of a guy that made a very poor judgement call last May 5th.

United we stand, divided we fall, and it is time shareholders say enough is enough.

This will be my last post here until I clear my name of the false allegations against me, as I know my lawyer will advise me to cease any engagement on public forums asap, but many thanks to you all for the last 5 years of laughs, the discussion, and all the best to each and every KRN shareholder.

Together we will triumph!

just my thoughts

I hope you advised the person that you were talking to that it was recorded.

If I am being accused of enrichment, what exactly would that be considered if one of the very corporations that is accusing me, is actually dipping their hands into that cookie jar, and as a result know that what they are accusing me of is not true.

Could that Constitute - Strike 3 - YOUR OUT!

I guess we are going to find out real soon, as I am sure Mr Phinney will wear the rubber off his tires getting this very detailed support package to his legal representatives, lol

Now that would make for an interesting discussion if the file was played at the AGM for KRN and GSFC.....

WHOOOO DOGGY, Now that will give a new meaning to new business from the floor, wont it?

Maybe even on the spot resignation, worthy?

I hope arrangements have been made to pod cast the AGM, as it should be one heck a hummmm dinger!

gig is up alright, and KRN made a big mistake attacking shareholders with accusations that can easily be proven false with one click of a button.

stay tuned as the suspense thickens!

Robin, I am not even sure if you read these boards, but I am sure someone you know does, so expect a care package to show up on your doorstep within a couple days, compliments of a guy that made a very poor judgement call last May 5th.

United we stand, divided we fall, and it is time shareholders say enough is enough.

This will be my last post here until I clear my name of the false allegations against me, as I know my lawyer will advise me to cease any engagement on public forums asap, but many thanks to you all for the last 5 years of laughs, the discussion, and all the best to each and every KRN shareholder.

Together we will triumph!

I am glad to see Mr. Brown is going stop posting for a while. I am really concerned that it is not very healthy as he is showing signs of Paranoia. I am not Roy. He use to say I was management or a board member. He is starting to lose it even posting evidence that shows his own guilt scary. Life is too short brownie sit back take a couple of deep breath you are getting worked up and there is no need for it. I already said, I got nothing against a man doing some work seeing what appears to be an opportunity and pounce on it to enrich himself. That is what capitalism is all about! More power to you! Just chill a bit though you are digging a whole for yourself. I am sure your lawyer will tell you the same thing!

No one here posts by that name, except one, and that waste of skin hasnt posted for weeks. Yet guess who sends a threatening inbox to me out of the blue last night, around the same time you have your little Freudean slip?

Folks be very aware that this board has become poluted with tricksters trying to deflect the real issues at hand, and to confuse you.

As with any election, the candidates should be judged based on the merits of their last term, and if a 50% slash in your investment here is acceptable, and you are ok with our company going in a completely unproven rabbit hole just because they think it ia a good idea, vote for these guys.

Mdj all you have done is share your side of the story and when KRN comes out with their side of the story you cry like a little school girl. Good for you to put together a unsolicited proposal but at the end of the day the company has to do what is right for ALL SHAREHOLDERS. Instead after your proposal was rejected you get angry and use this forum to hurl insults and defaming remarks at the company and its officers. And even more bizzarre is your position that you somehow deserve to get paid. As a small investor I can only go by what you have said and what the company countered in the letter to shareholders. In the MdjBrown if your proposal was viewed as good to the company then I can only assume it would have gained some traction and been moved forward. There are other juniors out there who may have some interest in this R&D concept or for all we know they have already rejected your proposal. Good Luck to you MDJ

That is what the KRN board is doing beats doing nothing. They are not building a plant as Mr. Brown suggest but running the numbers. Like Mr. Brown I do not generally work free though am a little cheaper than him lol. I would be more than willing to run the numbers but there are a lot of parameters and geological information I would have to look at. Here is a good idea Mr. Brown send me his proposal and I will run both. Off hand, I suspect neither are very workable but definitely willing to look at both. In fact I am willing to do a complete economic cost comparison and do a free streaming of my findings. Again I am unbiased but do not seeing either working in todays environment. Have to admit I know more about the whole solution mining and horizontal drilling than I do the boards Nitro proposal. From what I know about that it is a no starter. Hey and the Nitro thing might even be worse but I would have to look at it first. KRN are in the very early stages and doubt they can provide enough information yet. Funny enough, they do not claim otherwise! Bring it on! Willing to stream my findings live.

Mr Brown The only odd thing is you do not seem to understand my stance was always to be a dormant shell company and spend no money and hope the Potash market one day comes back to make money. The other odd thing is you continue to default to the whole Nitrogen thing! Again looking at something is a long way from building a plant which you must know but you are just playing a game dancing with ever providing an answer to anyone. If you have something better to off post it and quit your nonsense. Needless to say it appears more and more you want to replace the board so you can have one friendly to your ideas to possibly enrich yourself. That only you knows but the way you keep dancing and never answer questions one has to be suspicious. If you would like to go head to head in mathematical calculation on what makes sense I will take that challenge. You post I post 30 minutes to run the numbers. Hey maybe you could post your proposal and give me 30 minutes to run all the numbers including risk profile and I will do it free of charge for all shareholders. Please post your proposal and numbers to see if it holds any water. No reason to be confidential anymore right lol. We know that will not happen.

Mr Brown You have studied the art of the dodge pretty good. I have asked this question from you for at least 2 years and all you ever go back to is benefits of solution mining and horizontal drilling. So if it is off the table now all the secrecy is going so you can explain the whole thing but then again you never could. Heck when we first talked on this board you did not understand the affect of currency movement. You always have an excuse why you got to keep all this vast knowledge you have. You have explained nothing on this board as I have said other than the basics of solution mining and horizontal drilling. Again solution mining been around forever and horizontal just about forever now! I am getting to think management of KRN might be right. What exact value do you bring even if they decided to go small scale solution mine utilizing horizontal drilling? Heck I am not in the industry and could probably have an engineering firm in place to accomplish the task pretty fast. Again please in order for shareholders to make a firm decision what exactly were you proposing? I guess if you do not answer no one can challenge you! Smart business decision I guess!

Curvy, unfortunately it is off the table, water under the bridge

Once the new board controls KRN, I will be more than happy to explain it all again to anybody interested if I am able Until then you are going to have to review past posts, as I have only tried to explain it at least a hundred times or so.

Why dont we talk about nitrogen, considering it is the only thing currently on on the table and the new direction of the corporation plans on going. Shareholder value is directly linked to urea / ammonia and know one wants to defend it with any facts Weird!

26 years is a long time, and now KRN has found that elusive key to getting this done, when no one else has.

By now curvy, you would have had detailed breakdowns on the feasibility, the risks vs rewards, possibilities, probabilities., charts, graphs, due the the extreme importance of this fundamental change to the entire corporation.

Yet, not much interest in the only tangible thing that matters as a shareholder, - I find that rather odd.

Well not really, because you will conclude the same thing the market already has.....

This idea is a red herring!

Anyway, its getting late.....

If there are things to deny other than all the shares weren't going to you please inform shareholders so they can make an informed voting decision. Not for me because I do not plan on voting! Again I have asked for a couple of years now about this wondrous new technology or you do nothing but provide benefits of solutions mining and horizontal drilling. Why do you keep dancing around this issue and not share your wisdom given the circumstances. Heck maybe your ideas were well worth the alleged pay! Roy The illustrious Mr. Trump should be a good example. Heck a lie is only a lie if you get caught and then of course it is ok if it does not cost much lol. A couple of interesting observation from an unbiased side as my holding are minimal and at a minimal cost. Just enough so I could say I am a shareholder and deserve an opinion. Mr. Brown hey all the power to him if you can make a buck make a buck. That said, the only thing I have seen him say yet is that not all the shares were going to him. By default that seems to infer at least all the other details are factual. The other, is he continues to default back to the whole nitrogen thing without answering the question as to what new technology he was offering that was so fantastic. When someone is dodging usually means they really do not have a satisfactory answer. Now as far as the his dodge about the company spending all their money on this whole Nitrogen thing the last I recall the company said that they were actively exploring the development of a small scale facility. That is a long way from building a facility. As I see it the company had 3 choices 1. Stand Pat and hope the Potash Market comes back! 2. Look at Mr. Brown idea that even he can't seem to justify on a board like this. 3. Explore other alternatives. Seems to me they are standing Pat while exploring other alternative. In other words doing their job! As to the whole Phinney thing well I got great respect for the guy in that he brought this thing from nothing to something with potential. That said, Mr Brown indicates Mr Phinney was not heard from until the company posted this Letter on their web-site. Personal opinion if I hazard to guess they must have heard from him. This is not conjecture but rather deduction. Reason as I recall his open letter appeared on this board soon after the companies open Letter appeared on the web-site! If I recall correctly the letter stated he had something before the Alberta Securities Commission which would suggest to me that quite possibly he had something that he was trying to get in before the close date of the annual meeting. Just this mans conjecture! For Mr Brown you have not denied any of the other numerical issues in the Letter other than the shares so in the spirit of openness and fairness to shareholders please either confirm or deny the numbers! Also again please come forward with what your whole technological breakthrough was. I am very interested!

I will give Mr. Brown credit, he has tried to make something happen for Karnalyte. Yes he asked for compensation, we would all do the same.

Our current board is a complete waste of time.
The current board has provided 0 communication, the Nitrogen idea is the most ridiculous idea.
It has become very obvious this KRN board has no sense of reality in the Canadian Agriculture market.

It is no secret, GSFC's plan is to wait for the price of potash to increase, prior to building the plant. Can we all live that long, I know the treasury will not.

It is becoming clear the current board has 0 experience, and no vision.

I had high hopes on the initial GSFC financing option, that did not materialize, We have had a whole year to move the financing option forward with 0 success.

I am a larger shareholder, it is time to move these clowns to their next circus.

deflect, deflect, deflect eh curvy lol

Yes 4 guys on the current board were on the same side of the fence I was last year.

Improved shareholder communication, transparency, and an willingness to secure the financing arranged with GSFC without the perceived hurdles was the common goal.

It became apparent fairly quickly though that those goals were not going to be a priority, and concerns started to slowly develop.

Angry shareholders were starting to contact me at a frightening pace, and I was relaying those sentiments to the board.

According to my notes, a very well written message was available to KRN shareholders on Feb 5th, informing that transparency and shareholder communication would improve in the coming months

Unfortunately, I believe the nitrogen pipe dream started to take precedent over everything else in late February so shareholder communication continued to be dismal.

By the way curvy, how is it that my guys as you say were presented with the first proposal in June after deliberations with several of them leading into that June presentation.

Wasnt until January that I recieved a call that a consulting agreement had been approved by the board, and going through the remaining process.

Guess that blows your theory out of the water, eh curvy, but keep on insinuating unsubstantiated garbage. Jerry Springer could use your talents.

In fact, two more proposals followed the initial proposal after months of massaging them to suit both parties needs, so clearly the working relationship with the company was still intact.

June, November, February - in and out of the KRN office, GSFCs legal reps office in Calgary, countless hours on the phone between parties, initial drafts, final drafts, email, text, etc with KRN board of directors. Exhausting stull when trying to facilitate a transaction between so many entities.

Hard to keep up with the whats, whos, wheres, whens the past year and a half, so its good that I have a thorough paper trail to support the actual facts along the way.....

Once all of this information makes its way to Mr Phinneys legal team, it will be interesting to see what his thoughts are on all 3 of the proposals.

If these proposals were plausible in his expert opinion, and he agrees with the experts on our teams side regarding the proposals, could questions about fiduciary duties to shareholders come into question.

Oh the drama of it all!

Its funny you know, curvy. One of the current directors sent me an email advising that the engineering team was making a lot of money to inform the board of the actual facts where the proposals were concerned, and yet I am curious, can either of them sign off as qualified persons for anything potash industry related. I have tried to find that info out, but am having problems finding anything.

LA Pot Retailer: 12 shops, $1.6bln valuation and, coming soon, Canadian Stock

Maybe you would know their credentials.

Oddly enough, members of our team submitting the proposal can and have, so I look forward to Mr Phinneys comments regarding not only the proposals themselves, but also the qualifications and decades of potash experience of the team behind it.

I sure hope Mr Wheatleys directors have informed him of the players, as it might be a good thing to know whos who in the zoo..now that he has placed me squarely on a global stage.

Anyway, lets see what the lawyers have to say tommorrow. Hope I can say goodbye to everyone here after my meeting, but I have a feeling I already know the answer to that.

If not, Everyone vote, as this could be the most important vote in the history of the company

Smell Test?

Curvature ★★★★★ May 27, 2018 11:36 pm

So if I understand this correctly and I may not! The current board this time last year was Mr. Browns guys. If anyone said anything negative or skeptical he was all over them. Now if what was printed is true when the board refuse to accept his proposal and make him some instant wealth he began to throw them under the bus? Could this be to replace them with a board more friendly to his idea and make him some instant wealth? I am always a skeptic and this whole Brown thing does not seem to pass the smell test! But I could be wrong!

KRN Shareholders, Management and BOD

I do not have a website or any other public means of addressing all involved, so I will use Stockhouse one last time to issue the following message.:
Unfortunately, there is a lot currently going on behind the scenes right now including several lawsuits being initiated leading into the AGM.
This is not the answer to any successful resolution.
Whether or not the urea, potash, nitrogen, or even selective mining is the answer, no one knows until more information is available, but what I do know for certain is the massive amounts of money being spent now continuing into the next year fighting, is definately not the answer.
Education and communication with a large dose of humility from all sides will solve far more of these issues than fighting, as at the end of the day, shareholders will still vote at AGMs and these legal proceedings will only divide our tightly held company further.
As with every family unit, there are ups and downs, and eventually disagreements sort themselves out if cooler heads prevail.

The first step to making that happen though is always improved communication.

I can only hope that all parties start communicating better to resolve these issues before this gets to a point that there will be no return and lives are seriously impacted. Tranquility, understanding, and respect from everyone involved moving forward is our only hope.

In an effort to reach out and calm this impending storm,

To all shareholders that I have shared this journey with, I wish you all the best from the bottom of my heart.

To the management team and the board of directors, I realize that posting messages under intense stress, frustration, and emotion is not going to solve any issues, and I apologize for any remarks, comments, or suggestions that have offended or insulted you in any way in the past. It will never happen again.

To everyone bound together through holding KRN shares, I pray we all can get past this sooner than later to become a strong, focused team, as our little companies survival now depends on it.

I have learned a very valuable lesson in that trying to fix the worlds problems through emotional and often continued heated discussions on these social platforms is not the answer

Sincerely,

Dan Brown
